About Public Law

A public law is legislation that has been passed by Congress and (usually) signed by the President.
Public Law citations consist of the Congress number and then the number.
Example: P.L. 96-245 is the 245th law signed by the president in the 96th Congress.

Historical Background

Leading up to the 2024 elections, the 118th congress started with a fiercely divided House and Senate

The House struggled to elect a Speaker at the beginning of the session, voting began on January 3rd with Kevin McCarthy as the Republican nominee, however he was unable to get the 218 votes needed to secure the position. Democrats easily voted in Hakeem Jeffries as the minority leader, with 212 votes on January 3rd. Voting for a Speaker resumed on the 4th, however 19 republicans remained hold outs, preferring a more conservative nominee, nominating Jim Jordan as an alternative to McCarthy. Voting lasted 5 days and on January 7th Kevin McCarthy finally received enough votes and was elected speaker at 12:37am on the 15th vote.

On October 3rd, Representative Matt Gaetz of Florida, filed a successful
